FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

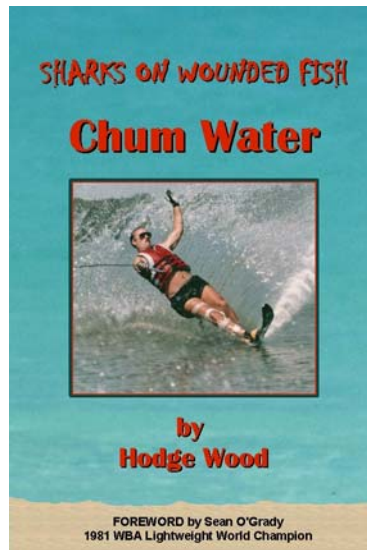

Local Comanche author Hodge Wood, through association with Authors' Coalition and Red Engine Press, is promoting his soon to be released book, Chum Water, at the LA Times/UCLA Festival of Books this month. To learn more about Hodge's new book and writings, please visit his website at www.HodgeWood.com.

Further Information - LA Times/UCLA Festival of Books

The Authors' Coalition will be located at Booth #610, Section F on the UCLA Campus on Saturday and Sunday, April 28 – 29. Admission is free but the event attracted 150,000 people last year, so if anyone can go and needs further directions, please contact Hodge. At the Festival, you can meet in person award-winning author Carolyn Howard-Johnson and fellow authors including Ellen Snortland, Joyce Faulkner, Pat McGrath Avery, Lloyd King, Leora Skolkin-Smith, Juliet Gipson, Ron Wolff, Sheila F. Murray, Erika Stux and others. They will personalize their books for you. For full signing schedule, contact Carolyn at HoJoNews@aol.com. Attendees can get a FREE CD packed with short stories, nonfiction excerpts and poetry. Get a FREE giftbook with your purchase of any book while supplies last. Browse books of other authors. Sign for Free handouts on promotion, editing and more (to be sent by e-mail). Learn more about the fair at <http://www.latimes.com/extras/festivalofbooks/>
